RAINSFORD'S FIRST LION.

The Reverend Hunter's Description of His Exciting Adventure.

The Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford, who won fame as the strenuous and radical rector of St. George's Episcopal church, New York, and who resigned his charge because of ill health, has been spending fourteen months lion hunting in Africa and has now entirely recovered his normal degree of energy. He landed in New York recently and is now engaged on a book about his experiences in British East Africa. He hunted in the same district of Africa where Mr. Roosevelt is busy shooting lions, and Dr.
Rainsford says he himself never had any scruples about shooting these beasts, they are so dangerous and cruel. In telling of how he killed his first lion he wrote in World's Work:

"The lion of my dreams he seemed—big and black, with no common blackness, surely the true king of that wild and beautiful place. Slowly, on and on, till in the middle of the narrow, green, grassy aisle he stood, the sun shining full on his magnificent coat and the dark, rich, low hanging mane that covered his shoulders. Then slowly, carelessly, he turned his broad black head toward me and sniffed the tainted air that drifted down to him.

"A deep, grunting roar answered my shot, and quickly he swung round his body toward where it came from. As he did so I fired very quickly again, just as fast as I could move my Mauser's bolt. Then he saw me and with another deep grunt came straight for where I sat with great, long bounds.

"The distance from where I sat to where the lion stood I measured carefully afterward. It was 170 yards, and now he came 120 of them faster than I could have believed it possible

REV. DR. WILLIAM S. RAINSFORD.

for any badly wounded beast to come.
The grass was just long enough to hide his body from me except when he was actually bounding in his stride.
If I had risen to my feet, of course, I could have seen him more clearly, but I had thought the whole thing out beforehand and had determined to remain seated.

"At about fifty yards the lion raised his head high above the grass and slowed down to a trot, and, as I saw his breast, I shot full into it, and the great dark head and yellow eyes sank slowly from sight again. There was just one instant's pause, and out of the grass came the big fore feet and the tip of the tail. He was dead."

ANOTHER POSSIBLE QUEEN.

Miss Anita Stewart, Who Will Wed Dom Miguel of Briganza.

The latest international match to be formed is that of Miss Anita Stewart of New York and Dom Miguel of Briganza, eldest son of Duke Miguel, pre-tender to the throne of Portugal. The engagement between the American girl and the titled foreigner was recently announced at a concert dance given in London by the young lady's mother, Mrs. James Henry Smith, who before her second marriage was Mrs.
William Rhineland Stewart. She was one of the beautiful Armstrong sisters of Baltimore, one of whom is now Mrs. Anthony Drexel of Philadelphia. About three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were divorced, and she afterward married the late J. Henry Smith, the bachelor millionaire, known in New York society and in Wall street as "Silent" Smith. He died on the wedding tour, leaving an estate valued at $30,000,000. He gave $1,000,000 to Miss Anita Stewart, who expects soon to become Dom Miguel's bride.
She is about twenty-two years of age and very pretty and vivacious. Dom Miguel is an officer in the Austrian army, though a Portuguese and a descendant of the royal line of the kingdom through his grandfather, Miguel, prince of Portugal, brother of the Dom miro who reigned the emperor of Brazil and became first emperor of Brazil Miguel, the grandfather, was actually king of Portugal in the years 1828 to 1834.

There is a possibility, though a distant one, of Miss Stewart at some time becoming queen of Portugal. At any rate, by her marriage she will enter the royal circle and become a relative of an Austrian and Bavarian archduchess and also a distant cousin of the German empress and of the Spanish Bourbons. Prince Miguel is a Roman Catholic. Owing to his commission in the Austrian army and his residence near Vienna he is a subject of the Austrian emperor, Francis Joseph.

It is said Mrs. Smith will give her daughter $1,000,000, which, with the sum she received from her stepfather, will make her total dowry about $2,000,000.

DOUBLES FOR HER.

No More of the Single Game For Miss Sutton, Tennis Champion.

It is a love game which Miss May Sutton of Pasadena, Cal., champion woman tennis player of the world, has been playing with Harry B. Hall, banker and capitalist of the City of Mexico. It is said that Mr. Hall is better at courting than tennis. At any rate, he paid court to her on tennis courts and other suitable places with such success that she has agreed that the single variety of the game is not so good as the double—in other words, she has agreed to become his life partner in all games.

Miss Sutton has taken so many cups at tennis tournaments in this country and abroad that she will have quite a start in setting up housekeeping, so far as such articles are concerned. She also has such a reputation for agility and strength that her future husband will hardly be likely to insist too strenuously on his rights as head of the house. Miss Sutton won the woman's tennis championship of the world in England in 1906 and again carried it off the next year. In her tennis adventures abroad she has mingled with aristocracy and even royalty, and her athletic feats are the marvel of those who have seen her performances with the racket.

Leak in Gas Pipe.

"I cannot understand how you escaped blowing yourself up," said the older housekeeper to the young one, as she rushed out to learn the cause of a somewhat sharp explosion. "Don't you know better than to hunt for a leak in a gas pipe with a lighted match?"

"Let me tell you a secret my grandmother taught me years ago. Paint the pipe with a thick soapuds, and where there is a leak the escape of gas will blow up soap bubbles about the crack."
"Quite simple, isn't it, but it will save you a bad start to your nerves if not explosions that are dangerous."

WHALE MUST HAVE HAD ORDERS.

According to Showman, Leviathan Waited Long for Jonah.

The Bishop of Marlborough told a story in opening the St. Thomas sale of work at Exeter, to illustrate the difficulty which confronted church workers in days gone by, says the London Standard. Sixty years ago he made a strenuous effort to stimulate parochial life in the direction of amusement, but it was, he said, a bad failure. The only thing which he could recollect of the details now was that there was a smoky magic lantern which had been used at Haldon races, and was "caught hold of" by a young farmer as a proper thing with which to give an entertainment in the parish, but it was simply an exhibition of animals, and the room, being dark and the showman not first rate, it was a miserable affair. Suddenly the showman said: "You know, children, I am exhibiting the animals that came out of the ark." Unfortunately, the next thing he exhibited was a whale, and a little boy exclaimed: "There weren't no whale in the ark." But the showman was equal to the occasion, and replied: "No, little boy, the whale wasn't there; it was waiting for Jonah."

HISTORIC TREES ARE PAISING.

Little Care Taken to Preserve National Memorials at Washington.

Old inhabitants of Washington were saddened the other day when the high wind overthrew the famous silver spruce which stood guard near the north gate of the White House ever since Old Hickory planted it in the latter days of his administration. The tree has been slowly dying for years and in the hollow trunk gray squirrels had made a perfect tenement. At least six families were evicted by the fall of the silver spruce, but they have found homes in some boxes which Mrs. Roosevelt had fastened to some near-by trees. It is doubtful whether this tree could have been saved, though Jackson enthusiasts now express great indignation that it was permitted to languish.

It seems strange that with the millions of dollars which the government spends on trees and forestry problems so little success is discernible in saving the historic trees of the capital.
Some of the most beautiful as well as historic trees have died within the past five years right under the nose, so to speak, of Gifford Pinchot, tree specialist. Other countries save their historic trees, as witness the venerable cypress under which Tasso meditated during his exile to Rome. It has been tenderly nurtured and guarded by the Italian government and iron props and all manner of stays are between it and the fury of the winds on the Janiculum hill. It is now so hoary and so visibly old that it is really one of the most touching sights in Rome. In Washington trees planted by Jefferson, by Alexander Hamilton, by John Marshall and Daniel Webster have been uprooted or have fallen the prey to plant enemy. For theories the government is probably in the lead of all other governments on forestry questions, but as judged from results seen in saving historic trees of Washington, that is another story.

REFLECTIONS OF UNCLE EZRA.

Many a successful poet got his start writing epithets for tombstones.

Of Andy Carnegie really wants to die poor, he might try writing for magazines.

The difference between a statesman and a demagogue is that the statesman has got the job.

The funniest thing I ever see was a feller with one tooth trying to eat sweet corn off the cob.

There is several kinds of molly-coddles, but they all wear passionate socks and smoke cigarettes.

There ain't a campaign orator in the business that couldn't make more money selling patent medicine.

This is a great world. A feller prays for rain, and it rains, and then the grass in his front yard grows about a foot, and he has to pay $4 to have it cut.
